

LAUNCH ATTEMPT TO SOLVE PROBLEM OF "BOOTLEG" COAL

Beamish Protests Against The Differential Freight Rates

TELLS HIS PLANS

P. S. C. Intervenes in Proceedings; Claims Rates Are Responsible for Loss

By Tony S. Smith
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, Mar. 5.—(INS)—A double-barrelled attempt to solve Pennsylvania's "bootleg" coal problem—one of the most perplexing issues ever to wrinkle administrative brows—was launched today in the anthracite fields and in Washington, D. C.

While the legislative anthracite coal commission trudged through the Commonwealth's hard coal region for a first-hand picture of the situation, Richard J. Beamish, counsel for the Public Service Commission, carried arguments to Washington which may have a far-reaching result on the entire coal industry and provide a partial solution to the "coal stealing" issue.

Before a meeting of the full Interstate Commerce Commission in the nation's capital, Beamish protested on behalf of the P. S. C. and Pennsylvania coal operators against differential freight rates now charged by northern railroads for coal hauls to New York State.

An attempt will be made, according to Beamish, to open the vast New England coal market, first, to bituminous operators in Western Pennsylvania, and ultimately to producers in the anthracite fields, scene of the "bootleg" coal problem.

Discussing the arguments with International News Service, Beamish explained:

"Under the present rate-scale, Pennsylvania is being discriminated against by railroad companies which allow southern coal fields to ship to New York for transshipment by water to New England markets at a lower rate. This set-up makes it almost prohibitive for the Pennsylvania operators to enter the seaboard marketing area.

"We expect to show that the original agreement was effected by northern railroad interests and not by a duly authorized governmental agency."

Specifically, the arguments will be on a complaint of the Pennsylvania Coal & Coke Company, operating in Cambria and Clearfield. Although the action involves only the bituminous fields directly, Beamish explained that in the event of success, it will have nearly as great an effect on the hard coal areas.

On behalf of the Pennsylvania operators, the Public Service Commission intervened in the Interstate Commerce proceedings, contending that rates charged for shipment to New York are responsible for a market loss of millions of tons of coal to the southern fields.

"The differential rates were effected in favor of the southern operators and against the Pennsylvania operators," Beamish said, "but we are going to try and correct the condition by obtaining lower rates for the Pennsylvania operators, especially those in Clearfield area, through the Interstate Commerce Commission." He added:

"Then, if we can open the New England market to the bituminous producers, it will necessarily follow that we will go further and open it to the anthracite fields."

Lack of necessary markets has been advanced by coal operators in the "bootleg" areas for suspension of operations which precipitated the existing problem. And leaders of the bootleggers have suggested opening of the New England and Great Lakes markets as a solution to the problem.

The marketing issue has been attacked from various angles. One is a proposal introduced in the General Assembly by Rep. Thomas Stockham, R. Montgomery, requesting federal funds for construction of a ship canal to New Jersey to facilitate shipment to New England.

Observers believed that if rates to New York are reduced, coal companies in the hard coal fields would resume operations and absorb "bootleg" labor.

INJURES HIP

Mrs. Sophie E. Lincoln suffered an injury to her hip when she fell on the stairs at her residence, the Delaware House, yesterday. Mrs. Lincoln is receiving treatment at her home.

BOARD HAS MEETING

Routine business was transacted at the meeting of Bristol Township public school board, which was held in the Maple Shade school house last evening. Ira Brown presided, all members being present.

BUTTE FALLS, Ore.—(INS)—Polk Smith, Jr., thought he was in for a lot of fun at a very small expense when he made himself a pair of skis, but he was wrong because: He fell while trying a jump, and one of the skis hit him in the nose and blackened his eye. Learning that his nose was not broken, Smith resumed skiing and fell again—breaking an arm. He has given up skiing.

Miss Rosemarie Paone Celebrates Birthday

Miss Rosemarie Paone, Dorrance street, celebrated her 16th birthday anniversary last evening by entertaining a few friends. The evening was enjoyed playing games and dancing.

Refreshments were served in the dining room which was decorated with blue and gold. Easter chickens were favors for the guests and a bouquet of roses formed the centerpiece. Miss Paone received many gifts.

HISTORICAL DATA IS GIVEN POMONA GRANGE

Pineville Grange is Hostess to Lower Bucks and Philadelphia Pomona

AT WYCOMBE CHURCH

WYCOMBE, Mar. 5.—The mid-Winter meeting of Lower Bucks and Philadelphia Pomona Grange, No. 22, was entertained Wednesday by the Pineville Grange, sessions being held in the Wycombe Baptist Church. Attendance reached 75.

Information concerning early days of Pomona grange activities in the lower section of Bucks county was presented during the afternoon. This review was given by the lecturer, Mrs. Frank L. Magill, a member of Tyrol Hall Grange, Buckingham.

Presentation of this data was made possible by the finding of the first minute book which was included among the possessions of the late Mrs. Rebecca Tomlinson, Langhorne, a charter member of Pomona.

It was stated that the Pomona in the lower part of the county was organized by the master of the Montgomery Pomona Grange in January, 1876. The first meeting was held in what at that time was known as Twining's Hall, Doylestown. For two years meetings were held in Armstrong's Hall, Doylestown, and following that they were held at the headquarters of the various subordinate granges in the district. Richboro Grange, no longer in existence, was the first to invite Pomona to hold its meeting at the headquarters of the Richboro Grange.

The organization, Mrs. Magill said, was first known as Bucks County Pomona Grange, but in March, 1876, Philadelphia Grange was invited to join. This was done in June of the same year and at that time the name was changed to Lower Bucks and Philadelphia Pomona Grange, No. 22, the name it still retains.

During the first year and a half, meetings were held monthly and only masters and past masters and their wives were permitted to attend, and it was not until two or three years later that other members were permitted to attend, but they were not entitled to a vote.

The first lecturer's program was presented at a meeting held in September, 1877. At that time essays written by the various members were read. These, however, had to be turned over to the lecturer a month before the meeting of Pomona.

During the last month of 1877 Pomona appealed to the State Grange, asking that it send out representatives for the purpose of conducting masters' and lecturers' conferences. This is still being continued.

Before bringing her remarks to a close, Mrs. Magill read an extract of the minutes of the meeting held in Twining's Hall, Doylestown, in November, 1879.

During the morning session Isaac S. Gross, Plumsteadville, a representative of Upper Bucks Pomona Grange, No. 56, gave a talk on ritualism.

The meeting was featured by a brief business session, during which the legislative committee presented three resolutions which were adopted by the body. The first opposes the Sunday fishing bill, the second upholds neutrality legislation and the third opposes any change to the Supreme Court except by constitutional amendment. Only two of the members voted against the adoption of the latter resolution.

Dinner was served during the noon hour by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Wycombe Baptist Church.

Mill Closed During Wage Dispute

Lebanon, March 5.—Scores of workers reporting for duty at the Lebanon Valley plant of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation today found plant gates locked and a cordon of local police patrolling the idle mill, closed pending outcome of a wage dispute.

There was no disorder. The several hundred men who turned out to work learned there would be no resumption today. Later labor impasse to result from the organization drive of the Committee for Industrial Organization, was the plant's closing following a strike among some of the mechanical employees yesterday, over wage increase granted by Bethlehem several days ago.

NAMING FAVORITES PROVIDES FUN FOR GROWN-UPS, HONOR FOR WINNERS

What would a campaign be without a few "stump speeches"? And right in this connection let it be said that quite a number of these have been made already, some over the telephone, some among friendly groups, in usual (as well as unusual) meeting places. All interest is focused upon the beautiful prize loving cup: the title of "Favorite" that goes to the winning baby and last, but not least, the $500 cash award that is destined to provide a business education for one of the community's finest and fairest.

Ballots come in with every mail. A voting blank is printed in each issue of The Courier good for a substantial number of votes. These may be clipped from the paper and voted for any child at any time before the expiration date printed upon it. Each cash purchase of 50 cents made at the stores of merchants who are assisting in this popular enterprise, gives the fair nominee a real big boost towards the goal. Relatives, friends and just acquaintances may ask for these coupons and vote them for any child they choose. Just place them in the ballot box after writing the child's name plainly upon the coupon and the campaign editor will do the rest.

Variety of Merchandise

Looking over the full page advertisement, one will find a wide variety to be had at stores of the various co-operating merchants. Be certain to request baby votes when making purchases at these stores as these coupons count amazingly fast. Rapid progress can be made readily upon the merchant's coupons and those merchants issuing votes in the baby election are each and every one leaders in their particular lines. Make a list of your needs and be certain to make a visit and deal with the merchants whose establishments are co-operating.

Cup To Be On Display

The beautifully-engraved silver loving cup to be presented the winner with his or her grand prize (the $500 cash award), will be the center of much admiring attention at election headquarters, 218 Mill street. This cup stands 33½ inches high—taller than many a baby and nearly big enough for some of the entrants to bathe in.

The winning baby's name will be engraved upon the cup as the polls close April 24th, and the judges determine the winners. Babies residing in the trading area, five years and under, are eligible to compete. It is not necessary for the mother or father to nominate the baby—any relative or friend may fill out the entry blank and bring or mail it in. This nomination blank starts the baby with 1,000 complimentary votes. The Courier desires to publish as many baby pictures as possible during the brief period of the race.

ADMIT HOLD-UP HERE, AND OTHERS IN PHILA.

Five Youths Taken Into Custody in Philadelphia, After Running Gun Battle

ONE IS BELIEVED DYING

Five young men, arrested in Philadelphia yesterday have, according to Philadelphia police officials, admitted a series of hold-ups and robberies during the early hours of Monday morning, the depredations including the robbery at the Wright Service Garage, Bath and Otter streets, where, in which hold-up William J. Murray, night attendant, and father-in-law of Mr. Wright, was struck over the head, bound and gagged.

In the local hold-up $18.28 was secured from the pockets of Mr. Murray and from the cash register.

The five, who according to Philadelphia authorities, have confessed a series of robberies through the Philadelphia area, and in Delaware county, in addition to the one here, were taken into custody early yesterday morning after three of them lost a running gun-battle with police in the West Philadelphia section.

Following the arrest, chiefs of police Linford J. Jones, and Bucks County detective Anthony Russo were notified of the arrest. It is believed that a lengthy period will elapse before the five can be tried for the Bristol hold-up of Monday morning, in view of the fact that authorities have a number of charges to lodge against the quintet following depredations in Delaware and Philadelphia counties.

One of the five was wounded, perhaps fatally, and was removed to the Philadelphia General Hospital. The lad, Joseph Almerida, 16, of Panama street, near 24th, Philadelphia, was shot twice in the head after the car in which the five were attempting a get-away, struck a pole at Spruce street, east of Thirtieth street. One bullet entered Almerida's head, and tore through to the jaw. Another ripped a groove through the top of his scalp, tearing off his hair from the back of his head to the forehead. Physicians state the first bullet, lodging

"JERRY" BAKER Hulmeville

The little lady pictured here is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Baker, of Hulmeville, and is too young to know much about the great esteem in which she is held or about the keen feeling her friends have for her and her aspirations to be chosen the Favorite of all the favored babies, hereabouts. "Jerry" has blue eyes and blonde hair and is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Baker, of Trenton, N. J., and Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Marek, of Hulmeville. Jerry's father manages a gas station in Hulmeville, and her mother manages the Hulmeville Hotel. Just look at this picture and see the sweetly innocent baby expression and then try to withhold your support from one so deserving. It just can't be done.

Our community's babies are the beneficiaries of the work in the election. They are also the "backers," inasmuch as it is through them that the election efforts are breaking the business depression in Bristol and vicinity. Everybody loves a baby and every baby is a pretty baby. And our babies are the best anywhere.

Hold 4 Bandits Without Bail

Philadelphia, March 5.—Four members of the "small chain gang," who were arrested after a police chase yesterday, in which another suspect was wounded critically, today were held without bail for a further hearing next Friday.

In denying bail, Magistrate Jacob Dogele observed: "You're lucky you're not up before me on a murder charge." The suspects are charged with having staged several robberies in this city, Delaware and Bucks counties.

One of the hold-ups for which the boys are believed responsible occurred at a Bristol garage.

Those held today are Everett Day, believed to be the "two gun man" of the mob, Thomas McGrath, 17; Robert Singley, 18, and Thomas Welsh, 21, all of Philadelphia.

The police chase in which several shots were fired took place a short time after the robbery of the drug store of Rocco Dellosso and the cigar store of Jacob Hockl, both located in South Philadelphia.

Sixteen year old Joseph Almerida, also of this city, was struck by a bullet in the neck. Doctors at Philadelphia General Hospital said his condition remained serious today.

Dance Hall Damaged by Fire

Trenton, N. J., March 5.—The Condado Grille, a restaurant-dance hall, on River Road, at Wilbertha, four miles north of here, was damaged by fire today. The blaze was the second within a year.

Penetrate Oviedo's Center

Madrid, Mar. 5.—Using picks, shovels and dynamite sticks, against rebel rifles and machine guns, loyalist Asturian miners today penetrated more deeply toward the center of shell shattered Oviedo, loyalist sources reported. In attacking insurgent strongholds, it was explained, the miners first tunneled under the rebels' buildings, then blew up their buildings and rushed forward without getting their rifles.

Loyalists asserted the rebels are now holding only the center of Oviedo.

FALL FROM POLE CAUSES THE DEATH OF WORKMAN

John Noone, 39, Pemberton, N. J., Dies in Harriman Hospital, Last Night

SPINAL COLUMN HURT

Injuries sustained yesterday morning by John Noone, 39, of Pemberton, N. J., when he fell 40 feet while working at the top of a pole near the intersection of Pond and Washington streets, proved fatal, death occurring last evening at 7:30. Noone died in Harriman Hospital, to which institution he had been rushed by his fellow workmen.

Noone, who is single, suffered a fracture of the right elbow, and injuries to his spinal column. At the hospital X-ray pictures were taken to determine full extent of the injuries, but death occurred last evening.

The body was removed to the morgue of the W. I. Murphy Estate, where it is expected relatives will claim it. Noone is survived by his father.

The workman was employed by the Philadelphia Electric Company as a supervisor of linemen.

Noone told physicians it was his belief that one of his spurs struck a knot in the pole, as he attempted to gain foot-hold, while loosening his safety-belt preparatory to changing his position over some wires.

FLOWER SHOW TO REACH NEW HIGH PLANE OF ARTISTIC ACHIEVEMENT; OPENS MARCH 8TH

PHILADELPHIA, Mar. 5.—This year's Philadelphia Flower Show opening March 8th and continuing through March 14th, will reach a new high plane of artistic achievement. It will not only be bigger than ever, with more gardens, more entries of individual growers, more exhibits of rare plants and cut flowers, and more displays of Garden Clubs, but a new note will pervade the whole show: Informal planting reflected in woodland scenes, depicting New England, the Niagara Falls area of Canada, beautiful glens characteristic of Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania, bulb gardens in the Holland manner, and a spectacular tropical canyon, literally lifted from Australia. This feature will be known as "The Romance of The Acacia." For this display the entire collection of the world-famous acacias from the Joseph E. Widener estate of Lynnewood Hall will be used. "The Romance of The Acacia" will occupy a full half of the centre bay of The Commercial Museum at 34th and Spruce streets, where the Show will be held. It will be the most ambitious floral picture ever attempted in a flower show in this or any other city. The acacias will be arranged in their natural setting just as they would be seen in their native habitat. A ravine has already been built of fifty tons of rock and earth, and on its slopes the golden blossom trees will be planted. Through this dell will wind a circular sylvan path. At the foot a cleverly conceived pool will reflect the rich yellow acacia flowers and give the entire effect that of a brilliant sunrise. To make the scene completely tropical, 50 eucalyptus trees and 20 Yuccas have been brought

Auxiliary To Purchase Equipment For Scouts

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Mar. 5.—The Women's Auxiliary of Cornwallis Boy Scout Troop, No. 1, held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Joseph Dedrick, this week.

An interesting meeting occurred, with a large attendance. It was decided to replace the troop's first-aid kit and purchase a camp kit.

A bake sale will be held on March 20th at Simons' store.

The meeting adjourned to celebrate its first birthday. Ice cream, coffee and cake were served. Mrs. Dedrick surprised the women with a big birthday cake with one candle.

NAME MRS. H. WILLIAMS PRESIDENT OF SOROSIS

Succeeds Mrs. Paul Bennetch As Head of Langhorne Women's Club

EVENTS FOR MARCH

LANGHORNE, Mar. 5.—At the annual business meeting and election of officers of Langhorne Sorosis, held in the library yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Harry Williams, Jr., was named president, succeeding to this office Mrs. Paul J. Bennetch. In the absence of Mrs. Bennetch, who is ill, Mrs. Williams presided yesterday.

Mrs. Leslie Allen served as chairman of the nominating committee. The election resulted as follows for the additional offices: 1st vice-president, Mrs. J. O. Canby; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Frederick Scull; recording secretary, Mrs. Wilmer Gorton; corresponding secretary, Mrs. R. C. Holland; directors, Mrs. Paul J. Bennetch, Mrs. George Staehle, Mrs. Lynn Harrington.

The meeting opened with the reading of the collect by the group.

Announcement was made of the forum which is to be conducted in the library on March 11th, with sessions at 11 a. m., and three p. m. A box luncheon will feature. The morning session will be in charge of the book club, and the afternoon program under direction of the committee on international relations. On the 18th of this month Sorosis members will be guests of Yardley Civic Club in the Yardley Fire Company station, at 215 p. m. Mrs. John Phillips, state chairman of public health, has been secured as speaker. The reading group of Sorosis will gather at the home of Miss Caroline Briggs on March 8th, at two p. m.

While tellers were counting the ballots yesterday, vocal solos were given by Mrs. Arthur Hagar, these including "Who Knows?" "I Love Life," and "I Plucked a Quill from Cupid's Bow." The accompanist at the piano was Mrs. Edgar Frutchey, Jr. Readings by Mrs. Fred Scull included "For Winter, for Summer," and "The House with Nobody in It."

Protection Engineer Addresses Local Clubs

Rotary and Exchange club members, meeting in joint session at the Elks' Home last evening, were addressed by Edwin R. Maize, Jr., protection engineer of the American District Telegraph Company, who talked on the nation-wide service of his organization against fire, burglary and hold-ups.

Mr. Maize talked on the complete supervision that is given by the A. D. T. Central Station Burglar Alarm Service. He pointed out that a central station of the organization the service records each opening and closing of the protected premises and guards against every type of unauthorized entrance. It also checks all scheduled openings of premises each day, as well as investigates promptly every unscheduled entry, thus protecting against dishonest employees, building employees, former tenants or others who may seek to plunder.

The speaker, mentioning other services of his company, which is the only nation-wide organization specializing exclusively in the installation, operation and maintenance of electrical protection systems, spoke of the sprinkler supervisory and waterflow alarm service which automatically summons the department in case of fire or dangerous leaks. This system electrically detects and reports any impediment to normal functioning of sprinkler system.

Mr. Maize also discussed the automatic fire alarm service, watchman supervisory and manual fire alarm service, the burglar alarm service, and hold-up alarm service. The talk was well illustrated with a number of instruments employed by the company. Mr. Maize also took some time to describe the electric eye system of protection used by the company.

PERJURY

One of the most difficult reconciliations which confronts the courts is the effort to protect the reputation of individuals, business enterprises and even corporations, and yet allow that freedom from constraint which is essential in judicial proceedings.

It is deemed of prime importance that witnesses, litigants and lawyers should be allowed broad privileges in respect to what they say in courts.

So long as the allegations or testimony is material and is legally relevant to the case it is immaterial to any question of civil liability for it, whether it is true or false, malicious or without intent to injure.

The object of the rule, needless to say, is not to condone falsehood or to confer immunity upon a calumniator. It is that public policy requires the litigants should plead and witnesses should testify without that reserve which would result from a fear of suits for libel or slander. Not to throw up this barrier for the protection of witnesses would amount to a censorship on testimony that would defeat the very ends of justice.

This discussion answers the frequent criticism of judges for overlooking testimony that is manifestly perjured. They are more concerned with getting all material facts before the jury than with keeping perjured testimony out of the case. While perjury is heinous and warrants severe punishment it seldom accomplishes its illicit designs.

CUSTOMERS ARE LACKING

The fair, fat and forty will prefer not to believe Miss Zehna O'Neal, a talented lady who teaches half of Hollywood how to preserve its snakelike charm of figure by means of systematic dancing, when she asserts that the best and most graceful form of physical exercise for women eager for health and straight lines is scrubbing floors in the manner that prevailed before long-handled mops lifted woman off her knees. Obesity is anathema to the modern woman, but scrubbing in the old-fashioned way is declassée.

These facts and figures cannot, however, be brought to the attention of wives and daughters with expensive reducing tastes by husbands and fathers with complete impunity. Some female is bound to come back with the jarring rejoinder that golf as an exercise is a poor substitute for hoeing and mowing.

Even the children of this lively period who seek to find wholesome and necessary physical exercise in expensively organized games find at best a doubtful substitute for the benefits which our grandfathers as youths found in keeping a full wood box, going to the spring house with yoke and buckets and doing the other family chores.

Men, women and children might be brought to a reversion to these homely calisthenics if they could be made the excuses for buying chic costumes, costly tools and intriguing toys.

near the jaw, is causing muscles of his neck to swell.

Accomplices, cut in the crash, gave their names as Thomas McGrath, 17, Waverly street near Twenty-fourth, and Everett Day, 19, Laycock avenue near Eighth-ninth street, the light-skinned Negro seen on most of the recent hold-ups.

After treatment they were taken to the Thirty-second street and Woodland avenue station, where they were questioned.

They were captured when Almerida was shot and lost control of the stolen car, which crashed into a metal trolley pole. The car literally wound itself around the standard. Police worked for 20 minutes with axes before they could chop away enough of the tangled and twisted wreckage in order to free the youths.

McGrath and Day, according to detectives, implicated three other youths as members of the gang. Two of them were arrested as they slept at their homes. The third is still being sought by detectives, with orders to bring him in.

Police say they know who he is and expect an arrest momentarily. Those arrested on the alleged confession of Day and McGrath, are Robert Singley, 18, Ashwood street near Eighty-sixth, and Thomas Welsh, 21, Lissar avenue near Eighty-ninth street.

Detectives George Meyers and Harold Simmons arrested Welsh and Singley, who denied they had any part in Wednesday night's episodes.

They did admit, however, declared police, that they were with Almerida, McGrath and Day on the other "jobs."

They said they held up a gasoline service station Monday morning in Bristol and then went to Seventy-ninth street and C'nd Line, Tacoma, where they robbed a R. T. motorman.

After that they went to the Front and Berks street Frankford "EI" station and held up the cashier.

"Leisure to Repent"

by Ursula Parrott

SYNOPSIS

Gilbert Windon had been in love with lovely Denise Rendale from the moment he met her but she had eyes for no one except Keith Sheldie, handsome young playboy. However, Keith and Denise break up when the irresponsible Keith does not offer to marry Denise upon learning of her father's financial ruin. Keith frankly explained that he was solely dependent upon his wealthy father, and to marry meant being disinherited. Denise's sister, Felicia, suggests that she marry "money" immediately as Felicia herself had done. The latter loved the late Duane Fenton but married the unexciting, though reliable, Eustace Gardiner. Days when Duane failed her. When Gilbert proposes, Denise honestly tells him she loves someone else, but accepts him on the condition that the marriage be a formal one and, if at the end of a year she is not happy, he will free her. Keith is disturbed when he hears the news but does not believe Denise will go through with it. One day at breakfast, when his father is particularly domineering and disagreeable, Keith queries, "Why do you dislike me so?" "I dislike you because you are soft like your mother," came the reply. When Keith was only a year old, his mother had run away with her music teacher and had died shortly after. Since then, the embittered Sheldie, Sr., took his hurt out on his son, bending him to his will and preventing Keith from living his own life. The latter was often filled with self-contempt for enduring his father's treatment. At first he stood it for loyalty but, as the years passed, he realized it was because of the money he would inherit. On the morning of the announcement of her sister's engagement, Felicia was breakfasting in bed, trying not to be annoyed by the click-clack of her husband's riding-boot. She had not anticipated how dreary marriage without love could be. Just then Eustace comes into the room and asks, "Look here, Felicia, is this marriage of Denise's going to be all right?"

CHAPTER IX

"I was thinking, Felicia, that Denise is not the sort who should marry without love," Eustace went on.

There! He was shrewd to figure that out. How had he? He saw so little of Denise, she didn't suppose he knew about Keith. She said slowly: "Love has so many definitions."

"No; don't put me off, darling. It seems pretty important."

"Pretty important, too, that Father and Mother shouldn't go bankrupt, Eustace."

"I was afraid that was it." She did not answer.

He looked at her straightly, his gray eyes clear as a child's. "If you think it's all right—"

"How can one be sure? I think it's sensible."

"Yes. It was sensible of you to marry me, too, instead of Duane. Have you been glad you did, though?"

She was so startled she could not believe she had heard him aright. Never since their wedding-day had he said anything that indicated he knew she had married him while she loved his reckless cousin.

He said, evenly: "Don't look troubled, my dear. Sometimes, I've just wanted to know if you were really happy. You're so much cleverer than I, and you pretend better. I shouldn't have asked, of course."

"You should have asked, if you wanted to know." But she could not, could not keep her voice from shaking, remembering how madly she'd loved Duane, how she had wept, secretly and so alone, when he crashed the last of the planes he loved, and died swiftly.

Her husband looked at her. She made herself be steady. Futile to wonder whether she wished she'd shared one year with Duane, instead of having all the other years could bring her—to wonder still whether she wished she had been beside him in that last instant when his plane went down, and he who had so hated loneliness must have been so dreadfully lonely, facing death.

She said, very fast: "I wouldn't have married anyone but you. I'm always glad I'm married to you, Eustace." But he had been watching her face, not listening to her words, and he sighed.

"Perhaps Gilbert isn't prepared to keep Denise with such a light rein."

That odd phrase caught at her. Yes, he had held her with a very light rein, these three years. Suddenly, she said, "and spend it making you happy."

She could not quite repeat, "making you happy." She felt neither happy nor unhappy, only altogether calm, as the days followed each other.

Her marriage was arranged for the week before Thanksgiving. Gilbert would not return until immediately before the wedding. They would sail for the Mediterranean. Their further plans were indefinite.

None of those things seemed either specially important or very real. She grew a little thin, and Felicia's expression, watching her, was sometimes dubious, so that one day Denise said to her: "Don't worry. I'll go through with it, you know—largely because of Mother and Father. They're so pleased."

Felicia just said: "They are, aren't they?"

It was five days before her wedding-day, and four before Gilbert's expected return, when in her morning mail Denise had a letter from Keith—a very short letter:

"I'm just back from the West, Denise, and should like to see you for a few minutes. Will you have ten with me either Friday or Saturday if you are free? Unless you'd rather not, of course."

"I shall be in the Plaza lobby both days, at half past four. So don't bother to answer this. Just appear if you choose."

"If you don't choose, well, consider that there are enclosed all the best wishes for you, my darling. But I'd rather make them personally. Only—to make them is of course not the principal reason I want to see you."
Keith.

All day she thought she did not know whether she meant to meet him or not. But wild excitement flamed in her; and her eyes and cheeks were brilliant, so that even her unobservant father noticed and said: "How well and happy you look, Denise!"

BRISTOL-QUAKERTOWN - CAGE TILT HERE TONIGHT

(By Jack Gil) By Louis Tomlinson

Play in the Bucks County Basketball Tournament will be laid aside tonight as Bristol and Quakertown will battle it out in a royal struggle in the first round matches for the supremacy of the P. I. A. A. District One title.

Both teams are primed for the skirmish and both are eager to get in the victory over their opponents in order that they might advance in the play-offs. From all appearances this should prove to be a real struggle and a thriller from start to finish at least that is the conclusion drawn after seeing Quakertown battle Fallsington here Monday night. Both clubs are well balanced all around each possessing a fast team of smooth passers, and good shooters, with a tight defense. However, one element in which Bristol is weak may be the deciding issue—the important phase of foul shooting. It was in such a game as that and on that account that the Bunnies lost to Pennsburg by the slender margin of a single point in a thriller, 25-24. That was the last time Bristol represented Lower Bucks County in the State Tournament back in 1933.

Coach Bill Dougherty counter-acted Quakertown's move of Wednesday night when the latter left the varsity home to rest for the game with Bristol tonight. The difference was that Bristol won whereas Quakertown lost. However, it must be admitted that the up counties had a much stiffer opponent in Morrisville than did Bristol, who met Bensalem.

As this is the first time Coach Dougherty has piloted his five into the P. I. A. A. Tournament since 1933 in which he lost his first game of the playoffs, he will be gunning for the Bux-Mont champs.

The game should be as colorful as interesting and exciting because both teams are bringing along a number of rooters to the gym to witness the contest and to cheer and root for their favorites as an encouragement to spur the boys on especially in time of need. Quakertown will have at least 400 rooters there to back them, and if they can we feel reasonably sure the local fans can do as good or better if they desire to support their team. At least they should be in comparison to the size of the two towns.

The fray will be played at the Stewart Junior High School gym at Norris-town with the Bristol girls playing the Quakertown girls in the preliminary tilt at 7:30, thus necessitating the main match not starting until 8:30.

Flower Show to Reach New High Plane, March 8

from California. Scattered through the acacia grove will be typical native huts, built of woven acacia and eucalyptus bark.

"The Romance of The Acacia," however, will be but one of many colorful features of this year's Show. There will be gorgeous rose gardens set out on a grand scale—one with four thousand beautiful roses of every size and color, romantic rock gardens with active waterfalls and cascades, artistic lily ponds, fountains, sculpture and reflection pools, arranged in a new and alluring manner.

Cash prizes to the amount of $25,000 will stimulate the exhibitors to present many unusual effects, most of which—being of a competitive nature—cannot be here described as they must be held a secret until they are unveiled for the judges at the Show.

More than a million fragrant plants in full blossom will be displayed this year, and form a vast cyclorama of floral grandeur. The Philadelphia Flower Show has so increased in popularity, it was decided to keep it open an additional day—Sunday, March 14th. This is the first time a Philadelphia Flower Show has been opened to the public on Sunday since the Flower Show idea started in this city a hundred and nine years ago.

The Pennsylvania Horticultural Society will forego its usual entry of a large garden and give over its space to the Garden Club of America and the Garden Club Federation of Pennsylvania. In the Garden Club section, the exhibitors will present many new and practical ideas for flower arrangements of garden gates, formal pools, pedestal planting, bird baths, informal rockeries, garden nooks, herb gardens, plantings for shaded areas and marshland, wall and trellis planting, wall fountains, and bird sanctuaries.

Private growers will compete for the big prizes offered for rare and beautiful orchids, roses, carnations, sweet peas, azalea, begonias, bougainvillea, cineraria, cyclamen, geraniums, heliotrope, hydrangeas, spiraea, mignonne and bulbs in flower such as callas, fritillarias, hyacinths, lily of the valley, narcissus and tulips.

But, while the Show will impress many as an artistic triumph, it will appeal to others as an "ideas" Show. One may stroll through the great floral pageant with pencil and note book and gather a thousand and one practical suggestions, not only for informal or formal plantings in one's garden, but for decorating the home with cut flowers and potted plants. Philadelphia Flower Shows are always planned and arranged with a practical and educational note as the dominating motive. The cultivation and use of flowers are occupying more of the daily life of all of the people and the Flower Show usually serves as a clearing house of usable ideas that may be copied alike by one who owns a vast estate or the person of humbler means who would grow flowers on an economical scale.

Mrs. Rose Mayberry, who has been recuperating from a recent operation at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Granyille (Stephenson, 415 Jefferson avenue, has returned to her home on Garden street.

BRISTOL V. TROUNCES BENSALEM, 31 TO 17

The Bristol High School junior varsity got an opportunity to exhibit their skill in last night's tournament game and they came through with banners waving as they trounced the Bensalem quintet by a 31 to 17 score. This turn of affairs enabled Coach "Bill" Dougherty to save his "big guns" for tonight's district P. I. A. A. fray with the Quakertown five. The entire J. V. team performed yeoman service—they went to town in the pinch, and after all, that's what a J. V. aggregation is supposed to accomplish. But these lads did it with no uncertain gestures and exhibited one of the finest exhibitions of team work witnessed on the local court this season.

The first stringers opened up the contest, but they were only in long enough to take up two markers, both of which were fouls, scored by Zeffert and Hughes. In fact they left the game while the score was against them, and the J. V.'s ended the period with an 8 to 2 deficit.

The second stringers rose to their heights in the second quarter, and with brilliant team play featuring "Reds" Gallagher and "Bill" Mignoni, they piled up a half-time advantage of 14 to 9. Mignoni made it 6 to 8 on a side shot and Van Lenten tied it up. "Van" then put his team in front by making good his free throw. The startling sub varsity were never headed from that moment on. The score at the half, Bristol, 14; Bensalem, 9.

The third canto saw action aplenty with both teams fighting hard. Bensalem wanted very much to reach to the finals and made a game try of it. Mignoni sank a field goal and then followed it up with a foul for 17 to 9. Malone retaliated with a foul. Mignoni and Gallagher again shone with a sleeper, Gallagher tossing it in. Van Lenten added a foul for a 20 to 12 score. Kalencki made it 22 to 12 with a side shot. Gallagher made good his foul and "Van" also was given one. De Luca concluded the Bristol scoring in this period by ringing up two markers from the floor, while Lange was making one. The score at the end of the third period was all Bristol's by 28 to 14.

The last part of the fray lagged in interest. Kalencki made an audacious shot to increase his team's advantage to a 30 to 14 score. MacKenzie then made the best heave of the evening for his side by sinking a long, high arching shot from past the mid-floor. Malone added a foul and the fray then ended.

Mignoni and Van Lenten were the high scorers with eight points apiece. Kalencki made several fine shots, while Gallagher performed nobly in his sensational team play with Mignoni. Di Midio and De Luca also supplied a surprise to the local rooters with their fast, steady play.

MORRISVILLE WINS OVER NEWTOWN FIVE, 31-21

By Louis Tomlinson

Coach John Hoffman's Blue and Gold outfit from Morrisville had quite a scare thrown into them by a scrappy and peppy Newtown quintet, who clung to the heels of Bulldogs for three long periods gamely only to lose their grip and allow Morrisville to step out to an increasing margin in the final period to win the game, 31-21.

The up-river lads never at any time until the last period piled up such a lead as to be able to "take it easy" or to "coast in," but on the contrary they had to keep moving lively even to hold a lead at all. Until the fatal last quarter, Morrisville's highest advantage was of seven points, when they led twice by this margin in the second chapter by 12-5, and 14-7.

However, it was the work of their stellar guard, Bill Byer, that enabled Morrisville to even come out on top, for it was he who sunk three beautiful double deekers from various angles of the court and added a foul for seven of the 13 points scored by his team in the last chapter. It was he who scored nine of his team's total points or just enough to beat out Newtown by a single tally.

On the other hand, the sensational shooting of Howard "Buddy" Tomlinson was without a doubt the only reason for Newtown's great showing against their superiors. He tallied no less than eleven of the total points made by the losers, and his scoring kept the team pepped up and in a fighting mood all the time. They actually felt they would win the fray, and so did many of the spectators, who had come to see them take a lacing.

At the same time one must consider the fact that this club gets little or no practice only on their own individual court, as Newtown has no basketball court of its own, making it extremely difficult to organize effectively. In that light Coach Allen Tomlinson and his scrappy outfit deserve a great deal of credit for their showing against one of the best clubs in the County.

Newtown hopped off to a 2-0 lead when Smith hit the cords below the net for a pair of tallies. This lead was immediately diminished to nothing when Reitzel scored a floor shot. However, a foul by Sherman gave Newtown a slim advantage of 3-2. Again the margin was nullified on Wallace's goal below the cords, giving Morrisville a 4-3 edge. From this point on the Bulldogs were on top until the end of the struggle.

Coach Hoffman's boys increased their margin to 10-5 as the initial canto came to a close. This was due to a pair of field goals by Wallace and one by Reitzel. Newtown's points were the result of Smith and Tomlinson's field and Sherman's foul shot.

Wilson's side shot made it 12-5.

Morrisville, but Sherman replied with a two-pointer to make it 12-7. Wilson added another double-decker to his credit giving Morrisville a 7 point lead, 14-7. A field and foul goal by Tomlin-son brought the score up to 14-10, but Wilson again counter-acted with one from the floor, then Tomlinson also hit the cords from the floor to bring the totals up to 16-12 at the end of the first half.

The only points the Bulldogs could register in the third quarter were the result of Bill Byer's sensational shot from mid-court. Tomlinson and Nolan's double deekers were all that Newtown could garner in this period also, but it was enough to cut the lead of the ultimate winners to 18-16 at the end of the third period.

Then came the final and fatal last chapter in which Morrisville finally succeeded to tuck the game safely under their belt. And as aforesaid, it was the sensational shooting of Bill Byer that accounted for the Morrisville victory, and it was in this frame that he netted a trio of beautiful shots from the white line and past. All three shots cleaned the net clearly. He also added a foul goal to his total, and incidentally this was the only foul shot converted out of 8 attempts by the Bulldogs. The rest of the points were a result of floor shots sunk by Wallace, Bulkman and Reitzel. Tomlinson and Gallagher each added a field goal to the futile cause of the losers in the concluding chapter. A foul by Smith just before the whistle blew ending the game also wound up the evening's scoring. This brought the totals up to their final reading: Morrisville, 31; Newtown, 21.
